Historical Society Would Keep Old City Hall As Museum

Defense Battle Divides Capitol

Joint Chiefs In Middle On Dispute

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—An angry battle is developing in Congress over how much security the Administration's new defense budget will buy America.

In the camp protesting "not enough" is Rep. Vinson (D. Ga.), supported by Republican and Democratic members of the House armed services committee Vinson heads.

In the opposing camp are President Truman, Secretary of Defense Johnson, Chairman Mahon (D-Tex.) of the House military appropriations subcommittee.

Their stand is that the proposed $13,911,127,000 budget for the fiscal year beginning in July is "sufficient for present needs."

Caught in the cross-fire are the military Joint Chiefs of Staff, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and economy-advocating Congressmen of both parties.

Johnson and the Joint Chiefs returned from Europe just in time to be hit by Vinson's opening blast in debate on the appropriation bill in which he urged that $583,289,211 more be added for warplanes for the Air Force and Navy.

Vinson told Congress that under the Administration's military program American air power will wither on the vine at a time when the Russians are building the largest air force in the world "for use whenever their carefully-timed Pearl Harbor day comes around."

At about the time Vinson was speaking yesterday Johnson told a news conference he had ordered the Joint Chiefs of Staff to restudy the budget to determine whether more money should be asked for Air Force and Navy planes.

Jury Out 23 Hours

Iowa Student Innocent Of Coed's Murder

IOWA CITY, Ia., April 5—(AP)—Robert E. Bednasek was found innocent today of the charge that he strangled pretty Margaret Anne (Gee-Gee) Jackson in a University of Iowa off-campus rooming house the early morning of last Dec. 11.

This meant the jury accepted the defense story that the pretty coed's death was "a tragic accident." The state had asked conviction for first degree murder and the death penalty.

The four women and eight men who decided against the state's theory that the beautiful blonde's death was "cold, calculated murder" motivated by jealousy had taken the case approximately 23 hours earlier.

Bednasek himself had appeared confident even before he received word that a verdict had been reached. Sheriff A. J. Murphy said he had to wake Bednasek up to give him breakfast, so soundly had the young man slept.

The court-room, though only half-filled, was taut with emotion as the verdict was passed to District Judge James P. Gaffney who read it after first admonishing against any demonstration.

When the verdict was read, however, there was a shout of exultation from some of the spectators.

The handsome defendant leaned his head back momentarily and then embraced Defense Attorney Clair Hamilton. Both wept and Bednasek then sank back into his chair at the counsel table, rested his head on his arms and sobbed.

Bednasek then rose and walked to the jury box exclaiming: "God bless you all."

Music, Arts Society Names Acting Officers

Walter B. Null was named temporary chairman of the Music and Arts Society being formed here, when a group of interested persons met Tuesday evening in the public library. Miss Carmen McNicol was elected acting secretary.

A tentative organization committee is composed of Eric Silver, chairman; S. K. Wald, Melvin A. York and Hobart M. Butcher.

This group is promoting the first Salem Music Festival to be held Monday and Tuesday, April 24 and 25, in the Salem High School auditorium.

The festival promises to be one of the biggest affairs of its kind ever held here, with emphasis on the international scope of local culture.

Further plans for the organization of the society will be discussed at meetings on April 11 and 18 in the library room. These meetings are open to any person interested.

Draws Jobless Pay Illegally, Fined $50

A Leetonia woman pleaded guilty in Mayor Harry Vincent's court Tuesday to fraudulent misrepresentation by drawing unemployment compensation while employed.

The defendant, Gladys Smith, 36, of 255 1/2 Front st., Leetonia, received $380 over a period of 19 weeks, records show. The affidavit specifically charged her with receiving $20 for the week ending April 30, 1949, and stated Mrs. Smith worked for Mrs. S. Y. Winder and Mrs. P. W. Sarwick as a domestic during this period.

Mayor Vincent fined her $50 and costs. Don L. Schindler of Columbus, special investigator for the State Bureau of Unemployment Compensation, presented the case.

He said Mrs. Smith could have been fined $300 and costs, and be jailed for three months, or both, for each week in which she was guilty of illegally drawing compensation while working. He instructed her to return the $380 overpayment or she will be liable for civil action.

A. S. Johnston, manager of the local O. S. E. S., said this is the first case prosecuted by the Salem office in several years.

City Okays $70,000 Bonds

Issue To Be Sold
To Finish City Hall

A bond ordinance authorizing an issuance of $70,000 was passed Tuesday by city council to complete Salem's new two-story city hall.

The ordinance legalizes a decision reached two weeks ago by council. The bonds will be sold at an open sale to be concluded May 2.

To mature from November, 1951 through 1984, the issue will be redeemed at the rate of $5,000 a year, plus interest. No actual increase in the city tax rate will be effective as a result of the expenditure, councilmen explained.

The bonds will be issued within the 10-mill tax limitation and therefore do not require voters' approval. They will be of the general obligation type, and will be deducted, at a rate estimated at two-tenths of a mill, from regular operating millage due the city each year.

Work on the new city building, at the corner of S. Broadway and E. Pershing st., has been started by the Campbell Construction Co. of Warren. The added funds will be ample to complete the $239,000 two-story building.

The new site costs approximately $40,000 additional. A public bond issue of $160,000 was originally okayed by voters in 1946 but proved inadequate in face of rising building costs.

Council passed, too, a salary and wage ordinance for 1950, setting pay rates for city employees for the year. No changes were made in existing rates, but the addition of three school policemen was included in the new financial measure.

Patrolmen will begin at McKinley, Columbia and Reilly school intersections Monday and will be paid 90 cents an hour for 15 hours' work each week. This complies with a request made by the Salem Board of Education.

Mayor Reports

Mayor Harry Vincent reported an income to his office of $9,453.60 during March. This total includes: Building permits, $12; licenses, $98; city fines, $644.60; state patrol, $125, and city costs, $84.

Review Board Wants McCarthy's Evidence

Critical Point On Germany Up For Solution

Discussion By Big Three Ministers To Be Held In May

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—The United States, Britain and France appeared today to be approaching a critical point on the question of Germany's future. The outcome may also settle the fate of Western European organization.

The central issue, as seen by officials here, is whether Britain will join fully in the unity of Western Europe as a counter balance to German participation. Without Britain's wholehearted cooperation it is considered certain that France will be unwilling to accept Germany as a full scale partner.

The United States favors Western European Union, including all three of those nations, and feels that German participation is essential both to Germany and to its Western neighbors. But British and French policy, rather than American, holds the key to future developments.

Some diplomats say the situation will be the most critical to be discussed by Secretary of State Acheson, British Foreign Minister Bevin and French Foreign Minister Schuman when they meet in London next month.

Meanwhile, it was sharply pointed out last night in a speech which the American high commissioner for Germany, John J. McCloy, made in London. The speech reflected top policy thinking in the State Department here.

"The fact is," McCloy said bluntly, "we can not solve the German problem without fitting it into the larger context of a united Europe."

At another point he said: "No friend of Britain, aware of her problems, would dare urge any step which might prejudice Britain's existence or impair her position as a leader of nations. The United States, too, will have to do its share."

State Department officials are considerably more concerned about this question of the future of Germany in relation to Britain and France than they are now about the dismantling of German industries.

Reds Give Catholic Priest Life Sentence

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, April 5—(AP)—A Roman Catholic clergyman was sentenced today by a Prague court to life imprisonment on charges of high treason and spying for the Vatican.

His nine co-defendants, all of them Catholic churchmen, received lighter sentences ranging from two to 25 years.

The official Czechoslovak news agency reported that nine of the clergymen were convicted of either anti-state activity or treason or both. The other drew a two-year sentence because he knew of the activities of the others and did not report them.

Some of the defendants were charged with contacting foreign groups and collecting weapons to be used against the government.

The life imprisonment was ordered for Dr. Jan Mastilak, 39-year-old Redemptorist monk who was director of the Moravian Theological Institute.

Critics With Open Minds

Denison Student Group Visits, Argues With Capitol 'Big Wigs'

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—A group of Denison University students is mixing arguments with Congressmen and rounds of sight seeing into its annual visit to the Capitol to study government. The 14 students, members of a political science class at the Granville, Ohio, institution, are being piloted by their professor, Leland Gordon.

Rep. McGregor (R-Ohio) is a sort of God-father to the expedition. He makes arrangements for the students to get around, and see how the government ticks.

"Right off the bat," McGregor told a reporter, "we were having friendly chats and arguments. These kids really think for themselves."

"They have their own ideas about foreign aid, social security, solution of the unemployment problem, and the need for economies suggested by the Hoover Study Commission."

"They are meeting Congressmen and if they don't agree with what the Congressmen say they speak right up. And they are willing to listen to what the Congressmen have to say—which is more than can be said of a lot of their elders."

The students are spending a week here. Today they visited the Labor Department and attended a Senate session. They visited the Supreme Court yesterday among other places.

McGregor said he is seeing to it that they get into congressional committee meetings as spectators "and see how things are done here."

McGregor said he expects 16 or 17 high school classes from his district will make similar visits soon, and he will help them find their way around, too. The Denison group will leave for home Saturday.

Driving Licenses Needed To Operate Motor Bikes

State Highway Patrolmen today reminded drivers of motor scooters and motor bikes they must have an operator's license to drive on public highways.

The permit can be obtained from the Bureau of Motor Vehicles in Columbus. The patrol is cooperating with juvenile authorities in cases involving children under 18.

Senate Learns Request Has Been Presented

Board Certain No
Communists In U. S.
State Department

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—President Truman's loyalty review board has asked Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) for "any relative evidence" he has dealing with his charges of communism in the State Department.

Seth W. Richardson, the board chairman, told a Senate foreign relations subcommittee about the request today. The committee is investigating McCarthy's contentions that Communists and Red sympathizers infest the State Department.

The committee itself had just failed in its own efforts to get from McCarthy by noon today the information he has about Owen Lattimore, the man he accuses of being Russia's top agent in the State Department and the United States. Lattimore has called the charge a lie.

In reply to the committee's request for his material, McCarthy wrote that he could not understand the urgency. He also said if the committee would promise hearings next week he would produce witnesses to back up his charges.

Richardson testified at a committee hearing that his board has asked the State Department, the FBI, McCarthy and other possible sources for information on persons McCarthy has accused. President Truman has ordered the board to examine the cases of all those persons.

Before Richardson took the stand, the committee received testimony from State Department officers that continuous checks are made on the loyalty of Department employees and none are known to be Communists.

Conrad E. Snow, chairman of the Department's loyalty board, and Donald L. Nicholson, former FBI agent who heads the Department's security division, related the investigative procedures.

Snow made the statement to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) that the Department is a haven for Communists and their friends.

"If there are any Communists in the State Department, the loyalty security board is uninformed of their existence," Snow declared.

Snow and Chairman Seth W. Richardson of President Truman's loyalty review board were called before the committee in a phase of the hearings that is expected to reach its climax tomorrow.

Owen Lattimore, the Johns Hopkins University professor who McCarthy charges is a top Russian agent, is to be heard tomorrow.

Lattimore has called McCarthy's charges a lie.

By the time Lattimore takes the stand, the committee hopes to have from McCarthy papers he says he has to back up his charges against Lattimore. McCarthy has promised to go through his files and select material that he considers valuable.

The radio commented on unconfirmed reports from Geneva published abroad that the Cardinal had died in a Hungarian prison. He was sentenced to life imprisonment in Budapest in February, 1949, after being convicted of treason.

$950 Received For Crippled Children

Salem persons' purchases of Easter Seals, which will aid the Rotary Club's program of care for crippled children, has brought in $950 thus far, it was announced today by Atty. Henry L. Reese, committee chairman.

The Easter Seals have been mailed to every home in the district and the chairman hopes that contributions for this work among the crippled children will continue to be received. "The response has been very encouraging and we hope to equal last year's returns which amounted to $1,443," Atty. Reese added.

The care of crippled children is the principal project of the Rotary Club. Others on that committee are Floyd McKee, Lloyd Gordon, Milton Steiner, Thomas Purviance, Ray Pearce and E. M. Stephenson.

Soviet Planes, Pilots Said Aiding Mao

TAIPEI, Formosa, April 5 — (AP) — An air headquarters spokesman today said Russian-built planes which downed two Chinese Nationalist fighters undoubtedly were operated by Russians.

The spokesman said the planes "definitely were of Russian manufacture." And, he added: Judging from their technique, "they most certainly were manned by Russians."

The Nationalist fighters were shot down Sunday during a raid on Red shipping in Hangchow Bay south of Shanghai.

That opposition, the first the Nationalists have encountered in the air in four years of civil war, was seen by many today as an ominous forerunner of Communist air attacks on Formosa.

It also led to belief the Reds will have air cover if they attempt an invasion of this Nationalist island.

The air headquarters communique said: "Two Chinese air force Mustangs were surprise attacked by four to five Russian planes on the morning of April 2."

The Nationalist fighters, it said, were making low-level strafing runs on Communist junks concentrated near Chapu on Hangchow Bay for an amphibious assault on the Chusan Islands. This island group, about 100 miles southeast of Shanghai, is used by the Nationalists for air and naval bases.

The communique said one of the Nationalist pilots bailed out and returned safely to base.

Self-Control And Civil Defense

CITY OFFICIALS demanding that Washington tell them how to set up civil defense systems are asking the impossible. Washington doesn't know how to set up a civil defense system. Nobody knows how to do it. Unless that hard fact is handled intelligently, the United States is going to waste time and money on false starts and half-baked ideas. For once, Washington is stumped.

There is this precedent for civil defense held over from World War II. All countries which came under aerial bombardment practiced some kind of civil defense; the United States went through the motions of getting ready for bombardment but had no actual experience. One great lesson was learned.

The key to civil defense, regardless of the nature of attack, is self-control, an individual matter. It is concerned with self-discipline and willingness to cooperate for the common welfare. It is the sum of all the qualities in men which avert panic, looting, and the instinct to break and run under fire. Britons were experts of self-control. The Japanese had a tendency to go into panic.

The most elaborate civil defense plan conceivable would be a scrap of paper without discipline among its intended beneficiaries. In the absence of any American plan drawn to national scale, city officials can start to do a spade-work on civil defense by preaching the value of self-discipline in their communities. It looks like a hopeless task, but that is the true measure of the problem of civil defense in the United States. For once, Washington won't even be able to pretend that it has the answer. If the citizens of the United States ever are called on to defend themselves against atomic warfare in their own communities, it won't do any good to call Washington long distance to see what to do when the bombs start falling.

Dog's Best Friend

IT HAS been discovered and is being thoughtfully analyzed that the dog population of the United States is increasing by leaps and bounds, as it were. There used to be one dog for every 25 persons. Now there's a dog for every 10 persons. And the way things are going to the dogs, men eventually may be outnumbered.

The reason for the increasing ratio of dogs is one of those hard, cold facts that everybody likes to talk about and almost nobody likes to tackle. Man is dog's best friend and looks out for his interests tirelessly. Man, on the other hand, has no real friends. He likes to boast about the friendship of his dog, but everything he says in that regard is wishful thinking.

What man needs is someone to look after him, the way he takes care of his dog. It should be someone with as much sense as he has—someone who'd know better than to drop an atomic bomb on him when he wasn't looking.

Tax-Passing

THE GREATEST discovery of the 20th century may turn out to be the fact that no tax which can be passed along to the next fellow ever comes out of the pocket of the fellow who first received the bill. If the significance of the shifted tax burden ever dawned on a substantial majority of the people, there will come into being an entirely new concept of taxation.

The latest and certainly one of the funniest examples of tax-shifting comes from England,

Yes, It's True

NEW YORK ROYAL TONER has been throwing oysters in and out of beds for 40 years.

He doesn't do it for a laugh—it's his living. And it has given him a good life.

Toner, who operates a 6,000-acre Long Island farm, has a vast sympathy for people who raise century plants.

"Century plants must be the only things more trouble to bivalve ranch, spoke with deep feeling. Right now he has some 700,000 bushels of oysters in his beds.

Operating an oyster ranch is something like dry land farming, except you can't see your crops. And it is something like running an underground hotel, except the guests stay longer and are more finicky.

"You get them at birth and you have to switch them to different beds three or more times," said Toner grimly. "Each time you have to dredge them up and plant them in deeper water. And they don't shell out a profit until they're five or six years old and ready for market. All that time your money's tied up."

YOU HAVE to take more care of them than you do with children, too. A man can let his kids go swimming at Coney Island, for example, but he couldn't grow oysters there.

"The bacterial count is too high," Toner explained. "The state wouldn't allow oyster beds that close to polluted areas. It's even stricter about oyster raising than about dairy farming."

The time every oyster rancher dreads most is the summer spawning time. For a few days after birth, until they settle and anchor on bits of old shell thrown on the shallow bottom, the young oysters are free-swimming larvae. They look like tadpoles under a microscope.

"We're as nervous as expectant fathers then," said Toner. "Any storm or sudden cold snap can wipe out our whole year's set—the cash money we'll be counting on five years later."

"A big storm even churns up sand and smother the older oysters. The 1938 hurricane was the worst thing that ever hit our business. It not only lifted up our packing plant and dropped it down kindling wood. It cost us about a quarter million bushels of oysters."

An even bigger blow to the $70,000,000 a year industry was the change in eating habits that took place when Americans started ordering fresh fruit cocktail as appetizers instead of "half a dozen on the half shell."

"IT IS EASIER to cut a grapefruit in half than an oyster," admitted the rancher. But a self-shucking oyster isn't necessarily the answer.

"The business is coming back now—everything moves in circles," said Toner. "Do you know the Chinese raised oysters 5,000 years ago? Julius Caesar sent oysters packed in snow all the way from Britain to Rome."

"The Chinese and Romans weren't dumb. They knew what was good for them. To get the most food value out of anything where a labor government is showing Englishmen how to share poverty and make it bearable by calling it socialism. One of the selling points of socialism is the claim that it shows the little people how to trim the big people down to a dead level of financial insufficiency. That process already is well advanced among the English.

Among its distinguished victims is the Princess Mary, 53-year-old sister of the King. She is unable to pay the upkeep on her 2,000-acre estate; i. e., she doesn't have enough money left after taxes to pay the wages of the estate's employees. So she has thrown open the estate to visitors at so much a head.

And who will the visitors be? In many cases they will be the British socialists who would die of shame if it occurred to them that Princess Mary was shifting an unbearable tax burden from her back to theirs.

Commie Faces May Be Red

INSURANCE is being offered to youths in East Germany who plan to participate in the well-publicized march on Berlin at the end of May. They can get insurance against injury and death.

While they're at it, the Russian sponsors of this project might try insuring the whole adventure against failure. For they may find when this stunt finally comes off that it's as big a frost as many other of their European propaganda circuses have proved. Certainly the western powers are going to do their level best to put the chill on this one.

Spies Get Off Too Lightly

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON WITH all the talk about spies and Communist infiltration in the government departments, strange things happen when they do catch a real spy.

The most important spy of the whole post-war period—the man who gave away atomic bomb secrets to Russia and actually confessed doing so—isn't dead but gets a relatively short sentence in England and the persons in official life who failed in their duty to detect him sooner aren't even ferreted out for public criticism.

Klaus Fuchs was for seven years connected with our atomic energy program. Much of the time he was in the United States working on a government project of the greatest secrecy. He had access to everything, and he gave away everything. Certainly no more efficient or perfect spy has been uncovered in modern times—for the making of the atomic bomb is one of the biggest and most precious secrets of all time. So one would suppose that the people of the United States and Great Britain, where Fuchs was caught after a tip from the FBI, would be so enraged that the incident would be widely publicized to get the benefit of extra vigilance in order that nothing like it could happen again. But at the best the story of the Fuchs case is what in newspaper parlance is called a "one-day sensation." The dispatches told about it for a day or two. There was a brief trial, most of which was secret, and the incident has been almost entirely forgotten by most people.

THE FACTS are that Fuchs was "cleared" by the British government for work in the United States and nobody in the American government now accepts a bit of the blame. Just why anything so careless as an acceptance of a foreign government's clearance should be permitted in wartime or any other time when so much is at stake is something of a mystery.

Now, when it's over, nothing is said—publicly, at least—of the feeling of the United States government that the British government let the American people and the people of the other democracies down by this piece of carelessness. The American government politely lets bygones be bygones. It makes one wonder what good it does to catch a real spy if nothing happens afterward.

CERTAINLY such a master spy ought to have in his head a lot of information valuable to the American government for future guidance. But has the information been made available? It may be doubted whether the United States government knows any more than was printed in the press and what was filed in the court proceedings.

The impression might prevail that, after such a disastrous breakdown of the British intelligence services, there might be closer cooperation between the London and Washington governments on these matters, but so far as the Fuchs case is concerned the cooperation is said to be far from close.

Whose responsibility is it in America and Britain to bring about such cooperation? The public doesn't know and must be left in the dark.

But even where documents are stolen from our own State Department, there seems to be a great deal of indifference somewhere inside our own government about following up prosecutions.

SENATOR MCCARTHY has revived interest in the case of "Amerasia," a magazine which he says was a mouthpiece of communism and which in 1945 was found to have obtained possession of nearly 650 classified documents from the Department of State and other government agencies. Some of these included reports from our military and naval intelligence offices and contained military information such as a schedule of bombing targets in Japan. Yet, of the six persons arrested—and the FBI rarely makes an arrest without being sure of its evidence—all went free, though two paid light fines. Nobody went to jail.

Airline Fight

By PETER EDSON

Lone Cargo Firm Bucks Big Carriers

WASHINGTON BEHIND the $10,000,000 anti-trust suit just filed by Slick Airways, Inc., against the three major U. S. domestic airlines, is a four-year battle over the rapidly growing air freight business. A long court fight lies ahead, with no telling what outcome. But if the courts find for Slick, this company will be eligible to receive triple damages of $30,000,000, as an aggrieved competitor.

The charge which Slick makes against the regular, scheduled passenger-mail-express lines is, in brief, unfair competition and a conspiracy to drive the non-subsidized air freight line out of business. The Slick suit is filed primarily against "the big three" of United, American and Transcontinental Western Airlines. But the Air Transport Association, which includes all the scheduled lines, and Air Cargo, Inc., their ground, freight pick-up and delivery service, are also made defendants. So this is really a court fight between one independent and the field.

Slick Airways, whose president is 29-year-old Earl F. Slick of San Antonio, Tex., began operations in March 1946. Slick had been an Air Transport Command pilot during the war. He is one of many who foresaw the possibility for commercial air cargo. He has spent several million dollars into putting over his own airline and now finds it unable to raise further equity because of the regular airline competition thrown against him.

Just what the possibilities of air freight amount to is best indicated by the growth of the business since the war. In 1946 35,000,000 ton-miles of air freight were carried. In 1949 the total was 134,000,000 ton-miles—an increase of nearly 400 per cent.

THE GOING has been tough, however, and a lot of the independents who tried to buck the major airlines for cargo business have crashed into bankruptcy. Today there are three principal surviving freight lines—Slick, Flying Tiger Line, Inc., and U. S. Airlines, Inc.

These three lines were certificated by Civil Aeronautics Board last August for regular scheduled operations. Seven months operations have not revealed just what the business will be, but CAB intends to use the experience of these lines as a yardstick for further regulation.

In the last quarter of 1949, Slick, with 21 planes, carried 7-

381,000 ton-miles of cargo. Flying Tiger with 15 planes carried 3,648,000 ton-miles. U. S. Airlines with 5 planes carried 585,000 ton-miles. Slick and Flying Tiger claim they made money in December and January.

Slick now operates schedules to six principal terminals—Newark, Chicago, San Antonio, Kansas City, Burbank and San Francisco. Slick also operates irregularly into 17 other major city terminals, and is certificated to operate into 50 cities.

Flying Tiger is certificated for roughly parallel east-west routes, but its lines from Newark and Chicago extend to the northwest. U. S. Airlines operates on north-south routes, New York and Chicago to the Gulf ports.

The business which these lines have been able to build in plane-load lots is amazing. Garments on hangers in bags and cut flowers have been the two leaders. Other big cargo items include baby chicks, gold, cattle for livestock shows, song hit records, Toni dolls when they were the craze, TV, mistletoe, shrimp, strawberries, southern okra for the colored markets of the north.

TO GET this business, the freight lines have had to buck the toughest kind of competition. They operated first as contract carriers under special exemptions from CAB regulations.

Rates on the first air freight business ranged up to 30 cents a ton-mile. The regular airlines began rates to 11 cents. This drove a lot of independents out of business.

To stop cutthroat competition, CAB in April, 1948, put a floor of 15-cents a ton-mile on all air freight shipments. The fight for business has been a little more even since then, but the freight lines claim the regulars still run flights with less than pay loads in order to beat the independents out of customers and capture the market.

The freight lines, through their Air Freight Assn., and the independents through a merger of six small trade associations into the Independent Air Carriers Conference, claim that the regular lines are using their airmail subsidy money to destroy competition. Two bills to separate mail pay from subsidies are now before Congress.

The regular airlines contend that they were in business first and therefore have priority rights to keep out competitors. The Slick Airways anti-trust suit will test that theory.

Appeals For Preservation of Old City Hall

Editor, Salem News:

Most folks think of Salem's old City Hall on State st. as a rundown structure so antiquated they are forced to replace it with a new City Hall at another site. In a sense, that's true. But the very fact that the old city building is "antiquated" makes it important. Built in 1847, it is this community's most direct link with the past.

For that reason the Salem Historical Society proposes that the old City Hall be preserved as a state memorial. It is enlisting the support of the Ohio State Archeological and Historical Society to this end. This letter is to seek the support of all Salem citizens and organizations.

Stop and consider for a moment what this would mean.

In seeking state support, we are attempting to attract $50,000 in general assembly funds for use in rehabilitation of the structure. Such an expenditure would include new siding, painting, repair of the clock and general rehabilitation of the interior to provide a public meeting hall and quarters for an historical exhibit.

To the rear of the hall there would be a limited number of public parking places to accommodate visitors. Since the other nearest state memorials are at Canton and Dover—long drives from Salem—a public memorial here certainly would attract visitors.

Once the community obtains a central museum to house historical links to the past, these likely would come out of hiding. In many Salem homes there are relics of the past history of this community. Members of the Salem Historical Society have been told by any number of owners of such memorabilia that they'd be glad to make gifts of them to such a museum if and when it comes into being.

Aside from the cultural and civic appeal such a memorial has, Salem and its neighbors, there's a rather material aspect to such an endeavor. That is the attention directed to this community due to the presence of a state memorial within its confines. Most road maps published in the United States would carry the legend of Salem's Historic City Hall.

Historical publications would refer to the many important events the Salem memorial recalls.

How Horace Mann, Stephen L. Foster, President James A. Garfield, President James Monroe, Poet Ralph Waldo Emerson and "General" Jacob Coxey spoke there. And how, in 1850, the first Woman's Suffrage convention held west of the Allegheny Mountains gathered in Salem City Hall. Also anti-slavery meetings. These are but a few of the many, many happenings which qualify old City Hall for attention as a memorial.

Memorials attract visitors. Visitors eat, they buy souvenirs and they shop. And to be very blunt, those purchases mean extra money in the tills of Salem's merchandising establishments. The site of the old City Hall was donated to the city by the Hicksite Friends with the provision that it would revert to the heirs of the original owners if it were not continued in use for this purpose.

This letter is a public solicitation by the Salem Historical Society for your support of the proposal to make old City Hall a state memorial. If we want to obtain state support for such a project, Salemites must demonstrate their sincere interest and desire for such a project.

At the moment you can make a very valuable contribution to this endeavor by writing to the Salem Historical Society and express your desire for the state memorial development.

Every interested Salem citizen—and every Salem organization—should lend its support to this worthy program. Salem possesses a very historic property. It now becomes the task of the community to see that this property is preserved as Salem's only monument to its past history.

ROY HARRIS
President, Salem Historical Society.

Self-Control And Civil Defense

CITY OFFICIALS demanding that Washington tell them how to set up civil defense systems are asking the impossible. Washington doesn't know how to set up a civil defense system. Nobody knows how to do it. Unless that hard fact is handled intelligently, the United States is going to waste time and money on false starts and half-baked ideas. For once, Washington is stumped.

There is thin precedent for civil defense held over from World War II. All countries which came under aerial bombardment practiced some kind of civil defense; the United States went through the motions of getting ready for bombardment but had no actual experience. One great lesson was learned.

The key to civil defense, regardless of the nature of attack, is self-control, an individual matter. It is concerned with self-discipline and willingness to cooperate for the common welfare. It is the sum of all the qualities in men which avert panic, looting, and the instinct to break and run under fire. Britons were experts of self-control. The Japanese had a tendency to go into panic.

The most elaborate civil defense plan conceivable would be a scrap of paper without discipline among its intended beneficiaries. In the absence of any American plan drawn to national scale, city officials can start to do a spade-work on civil defense by preaching the value of self-discipline in their communities. It looks like a hopeless task, but that is the true measure of the problem of civil defense in the United States. For once, Washington won't even be able to pretend that it has the answer. If the citizens of the United States ever are called on to defend themselves against atomic warfare in their own communities, it won't do any good to call Washington long distance to see what to do when the bombs start falling.

Dog's Best Friend

IT HAS been discovered and is being thoughtfully analyzed that the dog population of the United States is increasing by leaps and bounds, as it were. There used to be one dog for every 25 persons. Now there's a dog for every 10 persons. And the way things are going to the dogs, men eventually may be outnumbered.

The reason for the increasing ratio of dogs is one of those hard, cold facts that everybody likes to talk about and almost nobody likes to tackle. Man is dog's best friend and looks out for his interests tirelessly. Man, on the other hand, has no real friends. He likes to boast about the friendship of his dog, but everything he says in that regard is wishful thinking.

What man needs is someone to look after him, the way he takes care of his dog. It should be someone with as much sense as he has—someone who'd know better than to drop an atomic bomb on him when he wasn't looking.

Tax-Passing

THE GREATEST discovery of the 20th century may turn out to be the fact that no tax which can be passed along to the next fellow ever comes out of the pocket of the fellow who first received the bill. If the significance of the shifted tax burden ever dawns on a substantial majority of the people, there will come into being an entirely new concept of taxation.

The latest and certainly one of the funniest examples of tax-shifting comes from England, where a labor government is showing Englishmen how to share poverty and make it bearable by calling it socialism. One of the selling points of socialism is the claim that it shows the little people how to trim the big people down to a dead level of financial insufficiency. That process already is well advanced among the English.

Among its distinguished victims is the Princess Mary, 53-year-old sister of the King. She is unable to pay the upkeep on her 2,000-acre estate; i. e., she doesn't have enough money left after taxes to pay the wages of the estate's employees. So she has thrown open the estate to visitors at so much a head.

And who will the visitors be? In many cases they will be the British socialists who would die of shame if it occurred to them that Princess Mary was shifting an unbearable tax burden from her back to theirs.

Certainly the western powers are going to do their level best to put the chill on this one.

Yes, It's True

NEW YORK ROYAL TONER has been throwing oysters in and out of beds for 40 years.

He doesn't do it for a laugh—it's his living. And it has given growth to oysters," he said.

Toner, who operates a 6,000-acre Long Island him a vast sympathy for people who raise century plants.

"Century plants must be the only things more trouble to bivalve ranch, spoke with deep feeling. Right now he has some 700,000 bushels of oysters in his beds.

Operating an oyster ranch is something like dry land farming, except you can't see your crops. And it is something like running an underground hotel, except the guests stay longer and are more finicky.

"You get them at birth and you have to switch them to different beds three or more times," said Toner grimly. "Each time you have to dredge them up and plant them in deeper water. And they don't shell out a profit until they're five or six years old and ready for market. All that time your money's tied up."

YOU HAVE to take more care of them than you do with children, too. A man can let his kids go swimming at Coney Island, for example, but he couldn't grow oysters there.

"The bacterial count is too high," Toner explained. "The state wouldn't allow oyster beds that close to polluted areas. It's even stricter about oyster raising than about dairy farming."

The time every oyster rancher dreads most is the summer spawning time. For a few days after birth, until they settle and anchor on bits of old shell thrown on the shallow bottom, the young oysters are free-swimming larvae. They look like tadpoles under a microscope.

Other big cargo items include baby chicks, gold, cattle for livestock shows, song hit records, Toni dolls when they were the craze, TV, mistletoe, shrimp, strawberries, southern okra for the colored markets of the north.

TO GET this business, the freight lines have had to buck the toughest kind of competition. They operated first as contract carriers under special exemptions from CAB regulations.

Rates on the first air freight business ranged up to 30 cents a ton-mile. The regular airlines began rates to 11 cents. This drove a lot of independents out of business.

To stop cutthroat competition, CAB in April, 1948, put a floor of 15-cents a ton-mile on all air freight shipments. The fight for business has been a little more even since then, but the freight lines claim the regulars still run flights with less than pay loads in order to beat the independents out of customers and capture the market.

The freight lines, through their Air Freight Assn., and the independents through a merger of six small trade associations into the Independent Air Carriers Conference, claim that the regular lines are using their airmail subsidy money to destroy competition. Two bills to separate mail pay from subsidies are now before Congress.

The regular airlines contend that they were in business first and therefore have priority rights to keep out competitors. The Slick Airways anti-trust suit will test that theory.

Appeals For Preservation of Old City Hall

Editor, Salem News:

Most folks think of Salem's old City Hall on State st. as a run-down structure so antiquated they are forced to replace it with a new City Hall at another site. In a sense, that's true. But the very fact that the old city civic building is "antiquated" makes it important. Built in 1847, it is this community's most direct link with the past.

For that reason the Salem Historical Society proposes that the old City Hall be preserved as a state memorial. It is enlisting the support of the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society to this end. This letter is to seek the support of all Salem citizens and organizations.

Stop and consider for a moment what this would mean.

In seeking state support, we are attempting to attract $50,000 in general assembly funds for use in rehabilitation of the structure. Such an expenditure would include new siding, painting, repair of the clock and general rehabilitation of the interior to provide a public meeting hall and quarters for an historical exhibit.

To the rear of the hall there would be a limited number of public parking places to accommodate visitors. Since the other nearest state memorials are at Canton and Dover—long drives from Salem—a public memorial here certainly would attract visitors.

Once the community obtains a central museum to house historical links to the past, these likely would come out of hiding. In many Salem homes there are relics of the past history of this community. Members of the Salem Historical Society have been told by any number of owners of such mementoes that they'd be glad to make gifts of them to such a museum if and when it comes into being.

Aside from the cultural and civic appeal such a memorial has to Salemites and their neighbors, there's a rather material aspect to such an endeavor. That is the attention directed to this community due to the presence of a state memorial within its confines. Most road maps published in the United States would carry the legend of Salem's Historic City Hall.

Historical publications would refer to the many important events the Salem memorial recalls. . . . How Horace Mann, Stephen L. Foster, President James A. Garfield, President James Monroe, Poet Ralph Waldo Emerson and "General" Jacob Cockey spoke there. And how, in 1850, the first Woman's Suffrage convention held west of the Allegheny Mountains gathered in Salem City Hall. Also anti-slavery meetings. These are but a few of the many, many happenings which qualify old City Hall for attention as a memorial.

Memorials attract visitors. Visitors eat, they buy souvenirs and they shop. And to be very blunt, those purchases mean extra money in the tills of Salem's merchandising establishments.

The site of the old City Hall was donated to the city by the Hicksite Friends with the provision that it would revert to the heirs of the original owners if it were not continued in use for this purpose.

This letter is a public solicitation by the Salem Historical Society for your support of the proposal to make old City Hall a state memorial. If we want to obtain state support for such a project, Salemites must demonstrate their sincere interest and desire for such a project.

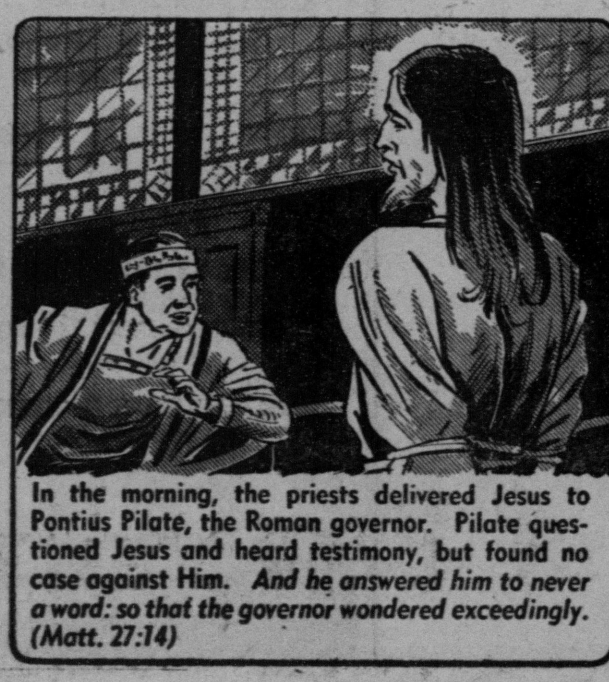

At the moment you can make a very valuable contribution to this endeavor by writing to the Salem Historical Society and express your desire for the state memorial development.

Every interested Salem citizen . . . and every Salem organization should lend its support to this worthy program. Salem possesses a very historic property. It now becomes the task of the community to see that this property is preserved as Salem's only monument to its past history.

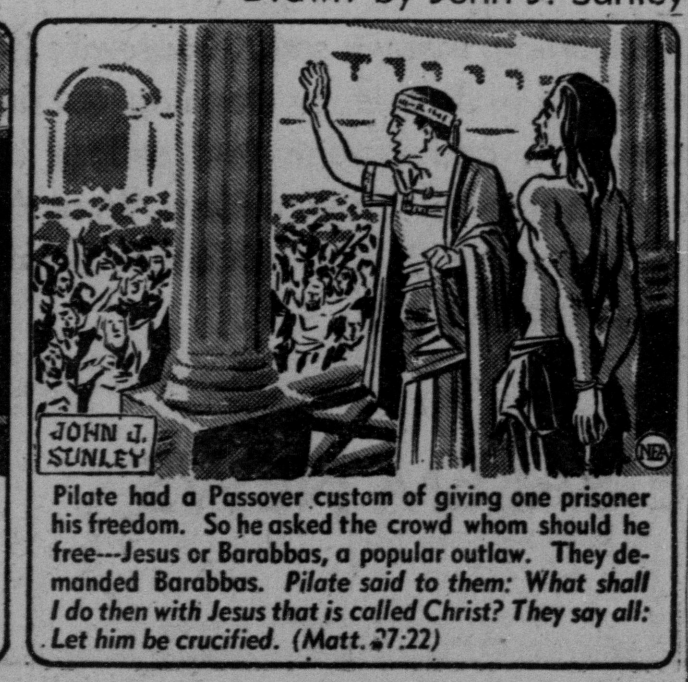

ROY HARRIS
President, Salem Historical Society.

The People Turn On Their Saviour

Drawn by John J. Sunley

In the morning, the priests delivered Jesus to Pontius Pilate, the Roman governor. Pilate questioned Jesus and heard testimony, but found no case against Him. And he answered him to never a word: so that the governor wondered exceedingly. (Matt. 27:14)

Pilate had a Passover custom of giving one prisoner his freedom. So he asked the crowd whom should he free—Jesus or Barabbas, a popular outlaw. They demanded Barabbas. Pilate said to them: What shall I do then with Jesus that is called Christ? They say: Let him be crucified. (Matt. 27:22)

Steel Orders Swamp Mills

Capacity Business Seen For Months

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—Every major steel mill in the country is booked to capacity for months ahead on all major products, The Iron Age said today.

"Steel is moving to customers on the allocation system developed during the hectic postwar period," the national metal working weekly said, "Mills are being swamped with requests for steel faster than it can be turned out."

A drop in demand in the second half is to be expected, for mills now still are fighting to make up the 11,000,000 tons of steel lost during the steel and coal strikes, the publication said.

"But this week there is no real evidence that there will be any serious drop in steel demand before the end of the third quarter," it added.

The Detroit labor situation remains the biggest roadblock barring smooth progress toward achieving a steel output which now promises to top last year, The Iron Age said.

"EXCELLENT" was the vote of 50 women who heard Mrs. Eugene Early review the novel, "Mary," by Sholom Asch at the meeting of the Presbyterian evening committees Tuesday in the church.

The Asch interpretation of the life of the mother of Jesus took the listeners from time before the Saviour's birth to the resurrection and tells much of interest of the life in Nazareth in Biblical times.

The Easter theme was carried out in story by Mrs. Eugene Young, who led in the worship service and in song by a quartet composed of Mrs. Ralph Martin, Mrs. Frank Huber, Mrs. Paul Reaser and Mrs. Clyde Letcher. Christ Is a Living Reality, Holy Week Speaker Reminds Christ was affirmed as a living reality by Dr. Russell J. Humbert, pastor of the Youngstown Trinity Methodist Church, in his sermon on "A Modern Affirmation of Christ" at the Holy Week noon-day service Tuesday in the State Theater.

"Those who read the New Testament portrait of His ministry are struck with the out-of-the-ordinary. Today we affirm Jesus as a divine person," he declared. His topic was "A Modern Affirmation of Christ."

In declaring that Jesus was different from any other man who ever lived, Dr. Humbert said that Christ sees people not as they are, but as they could become when God touches their lives.

Speaking of his visit to England last summer, Dr. Humbert stated that he saw the Britons standing in line for everything but God. "When only 10 per cent of the people in a nation attend church, there is something wrong with the church or the people," he declared.

"Today as always Jesus is like a great cathedral, beautiful for worship, great for service, sublime as a retreat from the tumult of the world—and forever unfinished," Dr. Humbert avers. He continued, "It is ours to affirm Him, and live within this unfinished cathedral, preparing ourselves for greater service as we take His Spirit into the areas of a needy and suffering world."

Dr. Humbert stated that Christ is the only one who can turn men's lives around and clean them up.

Rev. Sherman S. Brantingham, pastor of the Winona Friends

Church, presided at this service. Ben Bailey played the accompaniment for Mary Jane Taflan, who sang a solo. Members of the Rotary Club were hosts.

These services, sponsored by the Salem Ministerial Association, will close with Thursday's meeting.

Youngster's Gifts Alert Jewelry Hunt

CLEVELAND, April 5—(AP)—

A 13-year-old West side boy has started police on a treasure hunt for 181 rings which were in two trays taken from the trunk of a jewelry salesman's automobile.

The hunt began yesterday after the youngster gave rings to four of his friends, and the mother of one of them, realizing the gift was no trinket, called police.

One tray of rings was found hidden in a clothes closet and all but 12 of the remainder were dug up from a backyard hiding place where they were buried.

The boy told police he found the rings Monday in the open trunk of a parked Cadillac. Clarence A. Trau of University Heights, a salesman for a New York jewelry concern, said his car, with the rings in the locked trunk, was stolen from a downtown parking lot.

U. S. "Boss Man" In Palestine Peace Drive Is Optimistic

By LARRY ALLEN

JERUSALEM, April 5—(AP)—The four mixed armistice commissions striving daily to keep peace between Israel and her Arab neighbors have a tough job but the "boss man" is optimistic. U. S. Maj. Gen. William E. Riley is confident that with cooperation of all parties "the transition to a permanent peace in Palestine" can be achieved.

The American officer, chief of staff for the United Nations truce supervision organization, so reported in his first annual report on the work of the mixed armistice commissions.

Riley said the work of these commissions, despite the knotty problems which crop up every day, "has been reasonably successful so far."

There are separate commissions to handle disputes and implement armistice agreements between Egypt and Israel; Hashemite Jordan and Israel; Syria and Israel, and Lebanon and Israel.

Egypt signed her armistice with Israel at Rhodes on Feb. 24, 1949. Lebanon signed at Ras En Nakura on March 23. Hashemite Jordan's signature came on April 3 at Rhodes. Syria signed on July 20, 1949, on Hill 232 near Mahanayim on the Syrian-Israel border.

All these agreements provide that the armistices shall remain in force "until the Palestine conflict is peacefully settled."

That has formed only part of the job of the U. N. staff and the mixed commissions which have had to settle scores of minor border disputes; quarrels over the transfer of people from one sector to another; the liquidation of no man's land strips, shooting incidents and a host of other things.

Riley appoints a neutral chairman for each of the four mixed armistice commissions. The commissions have an equal number of Arab and Jewish members, usually two each. The Egyptian-Israeli commission has three Arab and three Israeli members. The chairman casts the vote that settles a dispute if the commissions remain equally divided.

Riley, as chief of U. N. staff, doesn't have any too much help in handling his monumental tasks. His military observer staff consists of 20 officers and 20 enlisted men from Belgium, France and the United States.

Many of these work 16 hours a day or more. They travel in jeeps and on foot from village to village contacting persons who can help supply the effective answer to any pending dispute.

Riley's report said many of the tasks handled by these men involved "great human tragedies."

including the problems of people shot and wounded or killed in incidents along demarcation lines. They also handle hundreds of on-the-spot negotiations between Arabs and Jews to recover stolen or looted property.

Riley said his condensed report could only hit the highlights. He added:

"It cannot tell of the hundreds of investigations and conciliations to recover cows and sheep and goats illegally appropriated by one or the other side, or more often, strayed across demarcation lines of which cows, sheep and goats are happily unaware."

"It cannot describe the incessant efforts to clear up misunderstandings and smooth out frictions between the parties, efforts made by observers in talks with local authorities as well as by the chief of staff in top level discussions in the capitals of the Middle East."

"But in general it can be said that the work done in the four mixed armistice commissions has been reasonably successful so far. 'Regrettable incidents and misunderstandings, possibly unavoidable under the circumstances, have occurred and may occur in the future.'"

"But there is reason to assume that, provided continued cooperation by all parties is forthcoming, the main aim of the four general armistice agreements can be achieved: To facilitate the transition to a permanent peace in Palestine."

FIND BODY

COLUMBUS, April 5—(AP)—Deputy sheriffs yesterday recovered the body of Cordell B. (Bill) Hensley, 40, Columbus bartender, who jumped from the Broad St. bridge into the Scioto River Feb. 16. Charles Catron, Columbus bait catcher, sighted the body in the river near Columbus.

FISCAL expert Frederick J. Lawton (above) has been selected by President Truman to be the new Director of the Budget, it was announced at the President's vacation resort at Key West, Fla. Now Assistant Director, Lawton will take over when Budget Director Frank Pace, of Arkansas, becomes Secretary of the Army.

Socialism Is Issue, Gabrielson Concludes

NEW YORK, April 5—(AP)—Republican National Chairman Guy Gabrielson, back from a Western trip, says he found deep concern over the "schemes in Washington which have us drifting down the road to socialism."

He says he drew that conclusion from talks with GOP chairmen and rank-and-file members of 18 states.

Interviewed yesterday upon his return from the two-week trip, he said "liberty versus socialism" is definitely the major issue of this year's Congress campaign.

Gabrielson said he does not believe that political attacks on Secretary of State Dean Acheson are harming this country's conduct of foreign affairs.

The GOP chief said "we were weak," and "that's the reason the attacks began."

"I believe in bi-partisan foreign policy," Gabrielson said. "But this (Truman) Administration won't work on a bi-partisan basis. The only fair thing is to attack the foreign policy of the Administration when it is wrong."

"As I see it, the Administration wants to formulate policy and have bi-partisan implementation of it. I think it should be bipartisan in formulation as well as in carrying it out."

Easter Sunrise Service in the Garden of the Gods

Colorado Springs Civic Players pantomime the resurrection of Christ at an Easter Sunrise Service in the Garden of the Gods.

AN OUTDOOR CATHEDRAL so majestic the Creator might have chosen it is the scene of the 30th presentation of the Easter Sunrise Service in the Garden of the Gods. The glorious exercises commemorating the resurrection of Christ are held annually in the natural amphitheater near Colorado Springs in the presence of 30,000 worshippers and in the hearing of a vast "church of the air." Making it an actual sunrise service, this year's service will start at 5:30 a. m. (MST) instead of the usual 6:30. By the time the service is completed, the golden light of a Colorado sunrise will have bathed the towering limestone shafts and the over-looking, snow-capped top of Pike's Peak in a glow of beauty. As in previous years, the Garden of the Gods service will be predominantly musical, featuring the Colorado Springs High school a cappella choir. One half-hour of the musical program will be broadcast on a national radio network.

Crosses representing Jesus and thieves who died with Him make spectacular background.

Rev. A. W. Luce, retired, founded the service in 1920.

A panoramic view of the 30,000 worshippers who gather each year in the natural amphitheater of the Garden of the Gods near Colorado Springs, Colo., for the Easter Sunrise Service.

Racial Segregation Before High Court

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—Three cases involving the question of racial segregation were taken under advisement yesterday by the Supreme Court.

In all three actions the high tribunal is faced with the problem of whether to overrule a 54-year-old doctrine that "separate but equal" facilities for the races satisfy the 14th amendment to the constitution.

This amendment forbids any state to "deny to any person the equal protection of the laws."

The three cases now under study by the court were brought by Negroes:

1. Heman Marion Sweatt was denied admission to the white law school of the University of Texas. He refuses to register in a new law school set up for Negroes.

2. G. W. McLaurin says he is required to sit in a special classroom spot and must use special tables in the library and cafeteria at the University of Oklahoma.

3. Elmer W. Henderson, of Washington, D. C., protested against separate dining service for negroes on railroad cars in the south.

There was no estimate as to when the court may rule on the issue.

Kentucky, in 1825 was the first state to adopt an official bird, says the National Geographic Society.

State At Tax Crossroads

Glander Says Lush Surplus Days Over

COLUMBUS, April 5—(AP)—Ohio has reached the crossroads in state taxation, the state tax commissioner said last night.

Commissioner C. Emory Glander, speaking at the 38th annual meeting of the Ohio Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages, said the state can not further increase its financial aid to local governments under the present tax system.

"The years 1950 and 1951 may turn out to be important years of decision for Ohio," said Glander. "We may have to choose between curtailment of state expenditures on the one hand and increased state taxes on the other."

"If we are to have increased local spending, we must choose either increased state taxes on all the people, or increased local taxes by those who want to spend the money.

"I see no other choice," the commissioner declared.

Glander said the state's revenue system has a "lack of elasticity."

"Our lush days of state surpluses are ended," he said. "The gap between our revenues and expenditures has narrowed until we can no longer distinguish it."

"Indeed, we are now in a kind of twilight zone where we face a deficit within this biennium."

Glander said the state already was turning over the bulk of its revenue to support local governments and their functions. He said the state is at the top of the list of comparable states and the percentage of state aid to local governments.

He said 67 per cent of taxes and other state revenues for general purposes are used for subsidies, schools, local governments, retirement of veterans' bonus bonds, aid for the aged and blind, dependent and needy children.

"The way to reduce the tax burden," he continued, "is to reduce spending. There is no other way."

Roast Pork Is A Family Meal

AT our house a loin of pork gets treated with affection. But there's no coddling. Sprinkled with salt, pepper and garlic salt, it gets pushed into the oven, fat side up, and there it roasts until done, done, done. No cover, no water, no basting, no nothing.

Pork must be in the pink when you buy it. Under a layer of snowy fat, the lean should be anywhere from grayish pink to delicate, rose. The cut surface of the bone should be pinkish, too. But all these rosy tints need to be cooked away before that pork is ready to eat.

Give it from 35 to 40 minutes a pound in an oven set at 325 degrees. That means a five-pound roast should cook for about 3 1/3 hours. For a meal that's quick, no pork.

Allow about a half a pound of meat and bone per serving. Ask the butcher to saw backbone free from ribs. Remove backbone before placing roast on dish and turn smaller end toward the carver's right (unless he's a southpaw). It's a cinch to carve between the rib bones.

For our roast pork dinner, with family arriving, out comes the red and white Irish linen cloth. None but comfortable chairs are drawn to the table, for this is to be an expansive evening—roast loin of pork (taste that sweet crackling?), gravy as deep as mahogany, chilled tart applesauce spiked with horseradish, baked sweet potatoes, our sauerkraut, fresh rye bread, then pink lattice pie made with the season's first rhubarb.

Our sauerkraut is mellow. It's not mine—I married it. It takes a large can of sauerkraut for every four relatives. It gets drained, rinsed, dumped in a saucepan with about 2 cups of cold water, 2 tablespoons butter, a big green apple, unpeeled, cut in small pieces. There it meditates, covered, over the slowest of fires for an hour and a half.

Jack Andrews, chef of Cavanaugh's restaurant, New York City, serves sauerkraut with pork, too. He lines a pan with bacon rind. Over it all goes fresh sauerkraut, well washed, and over that sliced onions, a few cloves, a young carrot and bacon grease. Covered, it cooks in the oven well over four hours.

But not Beth Bailey McLean from Chicago. "Sauerkraut with pork is a Yankee custom. We like green vegetables," Mrs. McLean rates a hearing. She's director of home economics for Swift and Co. and cooks for her 210-pound son.

Student Strike Continues

Sharonville Board Refuses To Change

CINCINNATI, April 5—(AP)—Another strike by Sharonville High School pupils was in prospect today after the village board of education, booed and heckled by more than 250 persons, again declined to vote in favor of rehiring Football Coach Mills R. Smiley.

The vote was 2 to 2 on the issue with Board Member Thomas A. Helrigle absent.

Last week the board voted, 3 to 2, against renewing Smiley's contract when it expires in June. That action precipitated a one-day strike by approximately 80 pupils.

Last night's meeting of the school board was marked by boos, catcalls and heckling that became so loud at times the speakers could not be heard.

When it was all over, several of Smiley's supporters expressed belief the pupils would refuse to attend classes again tomorrow.

The board had not intended to take up the Smiley case last night but had to do it when the crowd of townspeople showed up and demanded that Smiley be re-hired.

There were shouted demands that Board Member Walter Huff resign immediately. Huff, whose vote decided the issue against Smiley last week, said he planned to quit but that he would not resign under pressure and not until the coaching situation is settled.

Board members said Helrigle's absence from the meeting probably was explained by the fact he moved from Sharonville last week. They said his move apparently disqualified him from serving on the board.

Smiley was hired as coach three years ago to replace Dolf Forance, who had led the football squad for 17 years.

Until last week, the board stood 2 to 2 on the matter of re-hiring the coach with Huff, who joined the board only last Jan. 1 not voting. He finally cast his vote against Smiley after W. C. Gower, superintendent of the Sharonville schools, declined to recommend the coach's contract be renewed.

Cleveland Browns To Play Chicago Bears

To Meet Sept. 1.
In Exhibition

Game To Be Played In Cleveland Stadium

CLEVELAND, April 5—(AP)—The professional football game northern Ohioans have been arguing about for years will be played Friday, Sept. 1, when the Chicago Bears invade Municipal stadium to meet the Cleveland Browns.

The Browns won the defunct All-American Conference's crown four years running, but bleacher coaches wanted to know how Coach Paul Brown's team would do against Chicago.

They argued the point although Chicago had not copped the National League title since 1946. In Cleveland, the Bears were still considered the old pros.

Brown and George Halas, Bears owner and coach, signed for the game today. It will be an exhibition. Unless the Bears and the Browns both win in their respective divisions of the new National League, it will be the only time in 1950 the two clubs tangle. The Browns are in the American division and the Bears in the National division.

Halas, at the pact signing, predicted that even the best pro teams this year would lose three or four games.

"In this new league," he said, "the strength has been so well balanced that the spread between the strongest and the weakest will be about what it used to be between the strongest and the second strongest."

HUNTING CLUB TO ELECT

Officers will be elected when members of the Salem Hunting Club meet at 8 p. m. Thursday at the clubhouse. Plans will be made for the coon dog trials to be held Sunday, April 30. Lunch will be served.

When they passed 1690 points in this year's basketball campaign, the championship University of California at Los Angeles "Wooden Wonders" became the highest scoring quintet ever turned out by the school.

SCHNITTKER NAMED
WORCESTER, Mass., April 5—(AP)—Two North Carolina State players and boys from Kansas, Ohio State and Columbiana were selected to an all opponent team today by the Holy Cross Crusaders. Fifteen members of the squad voted.

Sam Ranzino and Dick Dickey were the N. C. State representatives. Clyde Lovellette, huge University of Kansas center, John Azary of Columbia and Dick Schnittker of Ohio State completed the all team.

PGA Showdown Set For Monday

Schneider, Chairman,
Not Invited To Meet

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5—(AP)—The tempest within the PGA was temporarily calmed today but it's almost certain things never will be the same again after a show-down meeting here Monday.

The meeting was originated by the PGA executive committee to smooth the touchy feelings of many of the nation's greatest golfing stars.

Although George Schneider, spokesman for the unhappy linksmen, was not invited to the meeting, there are indications several of his "board of governors" will attend anyway.

Lawson Little, one of the governors representing stars who demand more authority in managing tournaments, said: "There will be meetings and we'll get everything worked out. We touring golfers will get a bigger voice in running our own affairs."

Jimmy Thomson, another governor, added that he was invited as an individual and intended going to the meeting.

Other governors, including such gold plate golfers as Sam Snead, Jimmy Demaret, Ben Hogan and Cary Middlecoff, did not indicate their intentions.

Horton Smith, as secretary of the PGA, says the pros can have added authority if affairs turn out well Monday.

He said 11 governors were in-

WERTZ HURTS

LAKE LAND, Fla.—The Detroit Tigers' casualty list is getting serious. As they broke camp yesterday the Tigers learned that outfielder Vic Wertz might miss the American League opener at Cleveland April 18 because of an injured foot.

Pitcher Hal Newhouser, with a sore arm, and second baseman Gerry Priddy, with a sore back, are the other problems.

Schneider was slashed from the PGA payroll Monday as tournament director. Smith and PGA President Joe Novak charged the Ogden, Utah, golfer with failure to comply with PGA policies.

But that the twelfth, Schneider, was not. Schneider is both chairman and spokesman for the group.

Major Leaguers Veto New Suits

Not Even Yogi Berra
Wants To Wear Shorts

ST PETERSBURG, Fla., April 5—(AP)—Jeers drowned out the cheers in a sample poll of major league opinion on the "new look" in baseball uniforms, introduced at Hollywood.

In case you missed the pictures, the new suits, worn in the Pacific Coast League, are abbreviated. Hollywood players wear a pair of basketball style pants and light short-sleeve rayon shirt on hot days and humid nights.

Yogi Berra, squat Yankee catcher, looks with scorn on the new tailoring.

"Naw," said Yogi, "I wouldn't look nice in them."

Bobby Brown, trim young medical school grad who just reported to the Yanks for spring training, reserved opinion.

"First I'd like to see one modeled by Berra," said Brown.

Casey Stengel, Yank manager and former coast leaguer, has a definite opinion.

"You can say for me," said Casey, "that Mr. Collins (Hollywood president) should wear one greeting guests at his Brown Derby. And Fred Haney (manager) had better take a few pounds off that stomach, or forget it."

Rowdy Dick Bartell, one of the old guard, now a Detroit coach, didn't think much of the new suit.

"It's not practical," said Bartell. "How are you going to slide? You'd be surprised how much protection the regular uniform gives your legs."

Red Rolfe, Tiger manager, agreed with Bartell.

"We could stand something a little lighter," said Rolfe, "but I'm not one for those innovations."

Billy Southworth, manager of the Boston Braves, votes "no."

"The old suit never handicapped a ball player," said Billy. "This new version is sure to result in some serious sliding sores. I can't see it at all."

Salem Tourney Swings Into Second Night's Cage Play

The field in the Salem Independent basketball tourney was shaved to 27 teams last night, resulting from seven first round games. Both Salem teams playing, Amvets 2 and 3, won their opening encounters.

Seven more tilts are carded for tonight, starting at 6:15 with the Amvet 1 team meeting Sebring. Mullins city champions will play the DeMolays at 7, while the Leetonia Cleaners vie with the Colony Inn at 7:45.

One of the features of the evening will be the Canton Cals-Lowellville Vets game at 10. Cals have one of the top clubs in the tournament, while the Vets have several of Lowellville's crack high school varsity on their roster.

Monday night the defending champions, Vienna Scott Service, won their first game of the tourney, turning back the Elite Cleaners of Washingtonville 59-50 in a good contest. The Scotts trailed badly in the first quarter, but came back to move slightly ahead by halftime.

THE HOT shooting of Ray Wise, who netted 22 points, plus Larry Kukura's brilliant floor play, paced the Scotts to their win. Patchin collected 19 for the losers. The Cleaners team is composed of Columbiana Sportsman players.

Amvets 2 topped Youngstown Inn 53-46 in the opener, winning out in a sloppy game. Brown of the Amvets pushed in 20 points.

Amvets 3 had it easy beating the East Liverpool Ravens 71-40, led by Kranich who got 22 tallies. The No. 3 team is a group of Youngstown College players, including Walt Brian of Salem.

Canton Calvary blasted the Circle 8 Bar 50-33 with no difficulty. Kell meshed 16 for the winners.

A Berea five stopped Hall China 69-41, after building up a 36-19 halftime lead. The Berea

Barons Think Series Will Go Seven Games

CLEVELAND, April 5—(AP)—Coach Fred (Bun) Cook said today he was resigned to having the championship series between his Cleveland Barons and the Indianapolis Capitals go the seven-game limit.

The series for the American Hockey League crown starts here tonight, and the Barons are anything but over-optimistic.

They paced the pack during the regular season by 10½ games, but they had trouble with the Hoosier squad.

The Barons won six straight from the Caps but then lost the next four in a row. The last three visits to Indiana were particularly discouraging. The Barons lost, 7-4, 8-5 and 7-2.

Because they led the league during regular season play, the Barons will be the host team for the first two games and will be the fifth and seventh, if they are needed. That may turn out to be important. Five of the six times they beat Indianapolis it was on Ohio ice.

LARGE TOURNEY FIELD

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 5—(AP)—The largest field on record for this ultra-exclusive event will begin play tomorrow in the 14th Masters tournament at the Augusta National Golf Club. Out of 110 who received invitations because of their special qualifications, 68 have registered as competitors and a few more are due today.

The Masters' field is limited, as the name indicates, to outstanding golfers, including national champions, former winners, those who finished near the top in this and other major events, and a few newcomers selected because of their promise.

Howell Is 50 Today; Thinks He'd Do It All Over Again

By FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, April 6—(AP)—Reflections at 50—or, they say it's all down hill now!

Many things—some interesting—have occurred on this date, April 6.

Frinstance: 1789—U. S. congress held first session; 1830—Mormon Church organized; 1900—Frederick Edward Howell born; 1909—Peary discovered North Pole; 1917—U. S. declared war on Germany.

As usual, I'm the one in the middle. That 1900 birthdate makes me a half-century old today. It also gives me the privilege accorded most ancients—that of stirring up some old memories.

First quarter century: One of eight kids in family... measles, whooping cough, school yard fights and flunked English classes... high school, tried all athletics but failed to make a letter. First World War... a short stateside stint... then to Bradley Tech... letters in football, baseball, track and basketball (how I tangled to later still a mystery). Made more "B's" in athletics than in classrooms.

Second quarter century: A struggling reporter... wish I'd paid more attention to those English classes... murders, train wrecks, Kiwanis Club meetings, the city hall beat... and then "How about covering the ball game today?" Since then—sports!

Three times, for short periods, we've been weaned away from the athletic side, but each time we've hurried back. There's nothing like writing about this and that on the sports front. (You get in free too!)

World series... National and international golf tournaments... championship fights (starting with the Dempsey-Tunney long count in 1927. The ABC... Grand American trapshoot... national rifle matches... regattas... Kentucky Derby... Indianapolis races... the Hambletonian... Army-Navy football games... pro grid championships... all have wheeled through our typewriter via the two-finger hunt and hit system.

ABOUT THE ONLY thing we haven't seen is a flying saucer. Our job has helped us know intimately such stars as Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Red Grange, Bill Tilden, Babe Ruth, Bob Jones, Ty Cobb, Tris Speaker. We've worked beside, and chatted in smoke-filled hotel rooms, with such fourth estate luminaries as Grantland Rice, O. B. Keller, Paul Gallico, Bob Considine, Clarence Budington Kelland, Damon Runyon and Don Beattie.

We trade first names, when we meet, with Paul Brown, Branch Rickey, Billy Southworth, Mike Jacobs and a score of others.

The big events, including over-emphasized Madison Square Garden happenings, were interesting—just as all sports affairs are interesting.

But somehow, as we look back down the years, especially the last 16 with the Associated Press, the highly-publicized events fade in importance.

THEY GIVE way, in retrospect, to cherished memories of the famed and fantastic Waterloo Wonders... to third-string quarterback Bob Wolfe of Toledo Waite kicking the first field goal of his career in the last 10 seconds of a rain-swept Buckeye Bowl grid game to whip Rortsmouth 9-7... to the sportsman of Cincinnati's Mrs. Olga Weil in Ohio Women's golf championships... to little Rio Grande College scoring its first touchdown in three years of trying.

Last fall, at the North-South High School game at Massillon, we were interviewed by Dick Ports of Alliance, a high school reporter. He thought we had an enticing job, and then he posed the question:

"I know this sounds silly, but if you had your choice of any job in the country, what job would you want? What I mean is, if you weren't Fritz Howell, and had your choice, just who would you like to be?"

The answer is still the same as the one I gave Dick: "I'd like to be Fritz Howell's successor as Ohio sports editor of the Associated Press."

Fun, of course it's been fun. We're looking forward to years and years of it.

The sugar is always in the bottom of the cup, and we're sipping down that way. As long as those high school kids continue to play, and we can write about them, the sipping will be good to the last drop.

Tribe Draws Fines For Shortcomings

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., April 5—(UP)—Every time a Cleveland Indian makes a playing mistake, it costs him hard-earned cash.

Manager Lou Boudreau has installed a new system of fines on the Indians which he hopes will develop a more alert squad.

Under the system, players are fined no more than a dollar for the various infractions. Mel Harder acts as the bookkeeper and treasurer.

The plan was put into operation in the weekend games and several Indians got stuck, including Boudreau, who failed to flash a hit or take sign when the count was 3-1.

Among the infractions for which the players can be fined are: Failure to drive home a man from third with less than two out; coaches missing signs from the manager and batters of base runners missing them from the coaches; failure to advance a man on a bunt; pitchers walking another pitcher; and pitchers committing a balk.

Bob Feller was fined three dollars for violations in Sunday's game. He failed to back up home plate, he balked and he failed to advance a man with a bunt.

Boudreau Injured In Tribe Victory

HOUSTON, Tex., April 5—(AP)—Manager Lou Boudreau of the Cleveland Indians had two good worries today:

1—A pulled groin muscle which resulted from a bum slide into second base Monday and may bench him for four days.

2—Where to place Bob Kennedy in the lineup.

Aside from those, things were not too bad. Yesterday the Indians pulled a ninth inning rally to trim the New York Giants, 7-6. Kennedy is a team player deluxe and he can work third base or right field. The Indians want him to play but Ken Keltner and Al Rosen are ahead of him at third and Luke Easter has the nod for now on right field.

The win was the fourth in seven starts against the New Yorkers and ran the Indians exhibition record to 16 wins to 10 losses. The two clubs meet here again today.

Sam Zoldak, Jesse Flores, Al Aber and Steve Gromek took turns on the mound for the Indians and not one of them gave up an earned run.

MARION, April 5—(AP)—Mayor Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo said last night that "common sense and unselfishness" should guide America's relations with other nations. "It is not asking too much that our relations with our world neighbors be approached on a bipartisan basis, with American common sense and unselfishness as our guiding lights," he told a meeting of the Marion county Democratic committee. He is seeking the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate.

Senate Puts Brakes On Point 4 Plans

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—The Senate foreign relations committee has hung a slow-down sign on President Truman's point-four plan to raise the living standards of backward areas of the world.

The committee voted 11 to 0 late yesterday to:

(1) Restrict the scope of the program to technical aid and assistance;

(2) Rule out proposed encouragement and guarantees to Americans investigating private capital in overseas ventures;

(3) Fix a five-year time limit to the program.

However, the committee approved the full $45,000,000 asked by the Administration for the first year's operation of the program designed to bolster undeveloped areas against communism. The House had cut this amount to $25,000,000.

The House — except for the money cut — approved the Administration bill in full.

Weather Details

(International News Service) April tried to act like March in Ohio today, threatening to sprinkle light snow flurries across the northern part of the state. But the scattered showers were a dead giveaway.

The mercury was expected to reach high points between 40 and 50 degrees before starting downward to the 35-30 zone tonight.

Pilot Stunts, Crashes, Is Arrested For Holdup

OKARCHE, Okla., April 5—(AP) — An Air Force veteran stunted a small plane over the home of relatives yesterday, crashed on their farm and ended up in a hospital charged with bank robbery.

State Police Commissioner Paul Reed said the plane apparently was part of a movie-like getaway scheme after robbery of the First State Bank in this small town, 30 miles northwest of Oklahoma City.

The FBI filed the robbery charge after Bank President L. W. Morris identified Jim Robison, 28, Enid, Okla., as the man who held up bank employees at pistol point about midmorning.

The identification was made from Robison's hospital bed at nearby Guthrie. Physicians said he suffered a gash over his eye but found no serious injuries after X-ray examinations last night. He would not discuss the accident or the robbery.

No Opposition Seen To New Air Secretary

WASHINGTON, April 5—(AP)—Senator Tydings (D-Md) today forecast early and favorable Senate action on President Truman's appointment of Thomas K. Finletter as Secretary of Air.

Finletter's nomination was signed yesterday at the winter White House in Key West, Fla.

"It is one of the best appointments the President has made," Tydings, chairman of the Senate armed service committee, told a reporter. "Mr. Finletter is well qualified."

It may be possible to act on the nomination at a session of the armed service committee Thursday, Tydings said, "although we usually let these nominations wait for a week."

COSTLY BITE

CLEVELAND, April 5—(AP)—A monkey who put the bite on a woman customer, both figuratively and literally, cost the proprietors of a pet shop $1,700. A jury awarded that amount yesterday to Mrs. Katherine Busch, who sued Mr. and Mrs. William Frost for $5,000 damages. Mrs. Busch said the monkey, Cheeta, lifted $10 from her pocket and bit her when she sought to recover the bill.

BAR CHURCH PROJECT
URBANA, April 5—(AP)—Injunctions barring Rev. William Wilson from the Honey Creek Baptist Church property were set aside by the second district court of appeals yesterday. Mr. Wilson said he had no intention of returning to Honey Creek from Troy, where he is building a new church.

ANOTHER SCHOOL STRIKE
FREMONT, April 5—(AP)—Student strikers at nearby Gibsonburg gained 10 recruits yesterday bringing their number to 171. The students have been protesting since Monday the refusal of the school board to rehire three teachers.

GRANGE YOUTH TO MEET
A meeting of the grange youth of Columbiana county will be held at Midway grange hall on Monday night.

FIRST SUBMACHINE GUN found in possession of criminal suspects in New York in recent years is displayed (right) on table with other weapons as four-man gang stands handcuffed awaiting viewing by a score of holdup victims. The four and a tall brunette were trailed 10 days before arrest. From left: Harold A. Seiler, who served 21 of his 47 years at Clinton prison, Dannemora, N. Y.; Joseph C. Lynch, 36, in Dannemora 14 years; Richard Lamme, on Rikers island 19 months; Thomas D. Kilbride, 40, in Dannemora 14 years. Police believe the gang was organized in prison.

College Coach Top Man For McKinley Job

By Brush-Moore News Service
CANTON, April 5—A new head football coach for Canton McKinley High school is expected to be named this weekend. It was indicated today by Harold S. Vincent, superintendent of Schools.

At present, the inside track apparently is held by Richard K. (Dick) Miller, 32-year-old head football coach at the University of North Dakota, but Mr. Vincent said no definite decision will be made until five or six more candidates have been interviewed.

The McKinley coaching post said.
